WHAT IS MIND STUDIOS?

MIND Studios is a full service product design and research studio housed within the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs. It is a place where people from big companies to the inventor prototyping in his/her garage and everyone in between can get help taking any idea from paper to production.

MIND Studios houses full scale design and prototyping capabilities with experienced engineers and designers on staff that have worked on projects covering a wide scope across industry and academics from high power laser research, to athletic shoe design, and toys. We can provide the expertise and resources needed to help you or your company take your design, research project or product line to the next level.
